Agnostic Native Born USA Chinese (Cantonese) Center's The Information Technology Insider Magazine

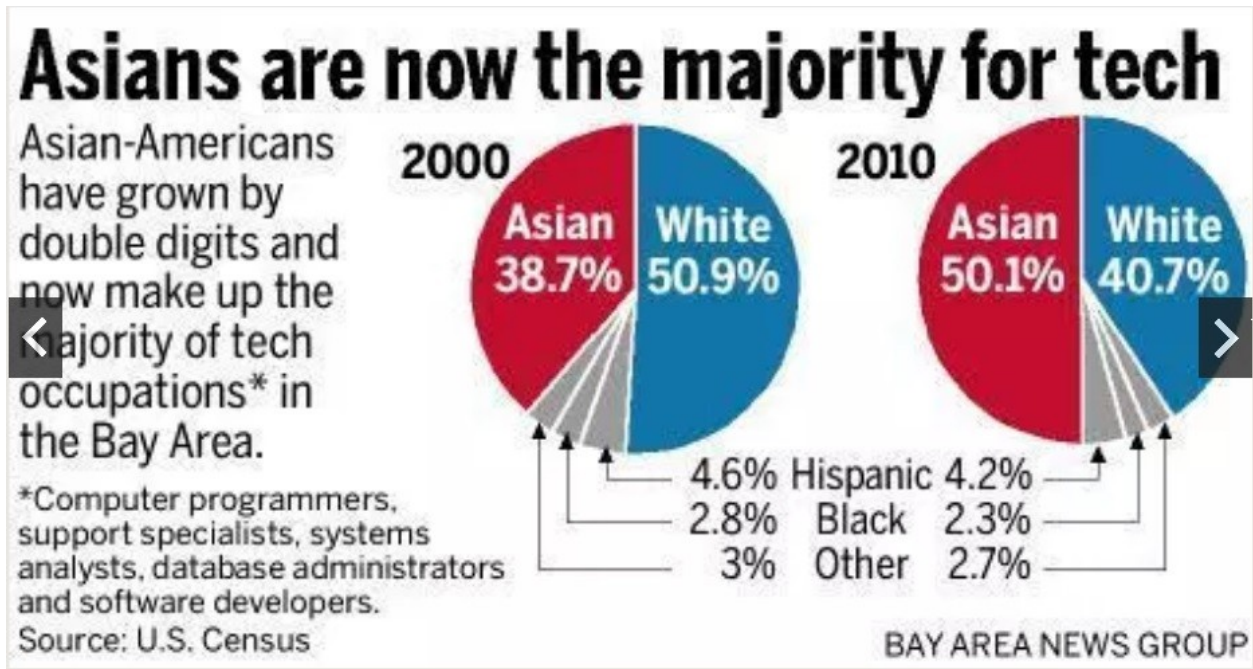

After attending over 200 IT sales and marketing events and over 100 Entertainment sales and marketing events, I ask myself, "What is the purpose of going to these shows?"

Are they there to sell products to the attendees?

Is it to write up on people that attends the show?

Perhaps it's the networking session time you have with your peers. Don't trust them? Perhaps you should give them a chance.

How many Asian IT workers work in the industry?

Native Born USA Chinese guy, Edmond Choi, is there to network and help you out. He's opening a new business and perhaps one day he could use your help. Send me your resume, let me know what skills set you have and perhaps you can get a job with him one day.

Send your resume to pcrushelpdesk@gmail.com if it is technology related.

Every great idea starts with major inspiration. Asian Pacific American Heritage Month Hackathon is a city-wide initiative to inspire Angelenos with the history of Asian ingenuity and the future of creative careers in technology and design. From Yo-Yo Ma, Jerry Yang, to Michelle Kwan, Asian History is rich with innovative inventors and creators. Asian Pacific American Heritage Month Hackathon goal is to motivate individuals with non-traditional backgrounds to see themselves in the rapidly growing field of tech.

The Hackathon will be a community based event where people come together to solve issues with the use of technology, transforming ideas into reality.

We'll discuss problems that plague today's Asian communities, eventually leading to the creation of a software program that provides a solution. Asian Pacific American Heritage Month Hackathon wants to invest in the history makers of the future.

Volunteer to be part of an Agnostic Native Born USA Chinese (Cantonese) Community Hackathon Team, etc. We promote STEAM related activities.

Native Born USA Asians need to create their own stuff. We need to stop relying on "Caucasian" people's technology like facebook, twitter, myspace, etc. Let's make our own.

Currently looking for someone with youtube development experience. Perhaps we can create our own youtube.

My experiences include working at Oracle Corporation using Oracle technologies.
